2. These quotas can be exceeded only if increased performance and a reduction of turn-around times are guaranteed. *

25X1

* Comment. These quotas are apparently issued every month. The measure reflects a tight central control, probably designed to bring about a more economical employment of the locomotives and a reduction in the consumption of coal. However, it may have a detrimental effect on the initiative of the individual regional railroad headquarters. The prescribed coal consumption quantities were previously reported. A comparison with the park of operational locomotives available to the individual regional railroad headquarters (number of serviceable locomotives and such under repair) shows that the prescribed quotas of locomotives amount only to half of the available park of locomotives. Following is a tabulation of the numbers of operational locomotives available on 31 July 1950.
